

The Grylls Monument was built in 1834 in memory of Humphry Millet Grylls who died in 1834. The local community wanted to memorialise him as in 1830 he used his influence with the banks to keep the Wheal Vor mines open at a time of recession. It cost £324 to build.